Eddie Shore Hits

At Today's Coaches

WINNIPEG, April 5.—(CP)—Take it from Eddie Shore there are no good hockey players today and he blames it all on the coaches.

"They don't teach the kids any," he said in an interview as he prepared to scout last night's Winnipeg-Edmonton junior final.

He doesn't think the coaches know how to teach the fundamentals of the game.

"They can't pass along anything to a youngster which will do him any good."

SHORE, an OLDTIME ace with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, and now owner of the Springfield and Fort Worth clubs in the United States Hockey League, says there are 10,000 hockey players in the world, but only 100 good players. He didn't name them.

"Hockey players aren't born. They're made. A good coach can make a good hockey player."

Eddie, now 44-year-old, who played under hockey's big top for 17 years, came from a prairie farm to start his ice career in Chicago.

"The coaches called me an awkward farmer, but I studied the game alone."

HE ADMITS HE IS no blushing violet and told interviewers he could still take his place on the blue line of any NHL club despite his years.

"I'd finish the season, on the north, on the second all-star team. Shore was picked 12 times on the NHL, first string team."

One hockey player he did praise was Sugar Jim Henry with New Haven this season after being sent down by the New York Rangers.

"Henry will give any goalkeeper a race for his money next season."

CAMBRIDGE BAY, North West Territories, April 5.—(CP)—If the north goes modern one of these days and replaces dog teams with snowmobiles, it may all be put down to the influence of exercise muskox, the Canadian army's 3,100-mile expedition across the frozen barrens.

asked questions about cost and up-keep.

Inspector Henry Larsen of the RCMP, skipper of the famed police boat St. Roch which he took to the island in 1944, says: "We could use them almost anywhere." He believes a walrus is "a lot more useful than a polar bear." He says a walrus weighs four tons—good, warm-blooded and with reduced fuel consumption. "It's a lot easier to replace the slower dogteam and komatik."

The trouble with dogs, he says, is in feeding them on the trail. "We can carry only so much food and if you have to hope up your dogs, they'll get sick. They had it and must turn back."

The CCP action said, left a "bad taste" in the mouths of British voters.

R. D. Jorgenson of Damp, president of the Alberta branch, said the party was "not a political 'swindle' when the late William Abernethy, announced his resignation."

NOW, HOWEVER, the "common people" of Alberta were "getting a bad taste" from the party, he said, "because they had stood by the Social Credit party."

At the meeting, the president of the Union Cristienne des Electeurs told delegates this was the "last time" the party would put up candidates before the people. "If we are not elected," he said, "we are out of an election" and will never make the political machines now in power.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta, originally scheduled to address the party on Thursday, was unable to do so because of a cold.

third reading to its new liquor licence act after defeating 51-22 a Liberal amendment seeking an affirmative vote before liquor licences are issued in the "big five cities"—Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor and Ottawa.

Ontario's liquor-by-the-glass legislation now requires only royal assent and proclamation to become law. By almost the same vote which saw the bill given second reading Tuesday, the Progressive Conservatives quashed Liberal house leader Farquhar Oliver's move to have a section of the bill's 86 clauses changed to prohibit issuance of lounge, dining lounge or dining room licences in any municipality until an affirmative vote has been taken.

WORLD EDUCATION and training schemes, farm settlement schemes, job training schemes—these are of little value to men over 45-50 of no value to men over 50. How can they compete for jobs in competition with boys out of school and young men?

Yes, it will cost money to provide adequate pensions. But Canada is planning to spend plenty of money in plenty of different ways for people of different ages. Canada is proud of her wealth. Other countries are envious of her prosperity. If first things come first—the education, the training, the job—then I think about spending our money on providing a little decent security for those who gave us birth, brought us up, gave us our education, the training, fought for our safety and security, sweated and worked to lay the foundations for our society and our present that in private interrogation before the trials the field marshal said: "The tribunal will have to decide whether I am a supreme liar or a fool".

Sitting before the tribunal in gray-green uniform, Keitel does not give the impression that he is a liar. He seems to be honestly trying to put the record straight for history regarding his position in the war. He is even trying to provide the conclusion in the court's mind that he acted like a fool, although it may convict him.

One can afford to look after its own people a little better than it can afford to look after the rest of the world. It is not our own house in order before we take on the task of playing fairy godmother to the rest of the world. America is proud of her values. Other countries are envious of her strength. But we must not forget that the first thing we should think about spending our money on is providing a good education for those who gave us birth, brought us up, gave us our education, gave us our freedom, and our safety and security, and weeked and worked to lay the foundations of our country and our present prosperity.
